F. D. R. Working on 4 Plans Like Soviet Government's Barter System

WASHINGTON— Working quietly in the Lincoln Study during the recent winter evenings, the President is evolving a plan for foreign trade which comes close to the Soviet system of government barter. Not only will the United States Government sell goods abroad under this plan, but it will act as a buying agency.

The plan still is in an embryo stage, has to await the President's tariff message to Congress. But according to present outline, it will be as revolutionary as some other phases of the New Deal.

Just now Roosevelt is embarrassed by the multiplicity of plans submitted by his advisers. All differ in detail, but their principle is similar.

The Big Four

Here are the four most important:

1. The plan submitted by George Peek. Detailed to work on foreign trade after he left the AAA, Peek has evolved a grandiose scheme for sales abroad. He would take the consular service away for the State Department, combine the personnel with foreign trade experts of the Commerce Department, also with parts of the Agriculture Department and erect a gignatic new department over which he would reign supreme.

Much more important, however, is the method of operation — and with this general idea Roosevelt concurs. T he plan is to establish a system of government buying. The United States, for instance, would agree to buy so many tons of flaxseed from Argentina. The amount would depend upon the flaxseed crop in the Northwest; also upon the commodities bought by Argentina from us. A definite quota would be fixed, and the United States would agree to take that entire quota. This would be set down in black and white under international treaty.

2. The second plan, that suggested by Secretary of State Hull, is essentially similar except on one point: The gaunt Tennessean does not relish being robbed of his consular service. The State Department, he thinks, can conduct this system of barter itself.

3. Another plan has been evolved chiefly by representatives of General Motors. It provides for a central trading corporation in the hands of private companies. The principle remains essentially similar.

4. The latest planners are Owen D. Young of General Electric and David Sarnoff, head of the Radio Corporation of American. They suggest a partnership between the Government and Big Business in order to undertake the same principle of barter. Behind their proposal is the belief that any planned economy must have government control, but that the big export firms which will profit most should cooperate. Also the government cannot pay salaries high enough to attract export executive, they argue, while private business can.

Roosevelt Decision

The President is now busy studying all four plans. Perhaps a combination of them may be the outcome.

Trade first will be pushed with Russia and Latin America; if things work well, to other countries. The R. F. C. Bank of Foreign Trade is the first step in this direction. Credits will go to the manufacture, rather than the purchaser. This should keep production stable, instead of spurting industry now, letting it drop later.

One thing upon which Roosevelt insists is that the U. S. A. cannot sell unless it buys. This is one of the big bases upon which the State Barter Plan is being built.

Misunderstood

Jim Abbe, crack international photographer, now "shooting" Washington, was posing Captain Herman von Goring in Germany not long ago. Goring was taking it too seriously, looked decidedly glum.

"You know," said Abbe trying in to coax a smile from his subject, "we can't have you looking so sour. Over in

MANY WRECKS RESULT FROM ICY HIGHWAYS

Pomeroy Man Fined $100, Driving Rights Taken For Six Months

HIT FLETCHER CAR

N. Court-st Scene of Two Auto Accidents

Slippery highways led to a number of accidents in Circleville and Pickaway-co, Sunday, none of which proved fatal. One man was ardested and is held in the county jail as the result of one crash, and several persons were treated at Berger hospital for minor injuries.

Lowell Wingett, 25, employe of a Pomeroy newspaper, was fined $100 and costs and his driving rights were suspended for six months when he appeared before Mayor W. B. Cady. He drove his automobile, a Chevrolet coupe, into the car of E. H. Fletcher, 118 Pleasant-st, north of South Bloomfield, at 3 p. m. Sunday.

Neither Wingett nor Fletcher was injured.

The Pomeroy man was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Bryan Custer and Miller Fissell.

REMAINS IN JAIL

Mayor Cady asked the sheriff's office to notify Meigs-co officials

By International News Service.

A toll of at least 18 violent deaths was chalked up on Ohio's fatality record over the week-end, a survey by International News Service disclosed today.

Two of the victims died from bullets fired by police officers, while 12 persons were fatally injured in traffic accidents in scattered sections of the state.

and the department of motor vehicles that Wingett's driving rights were suspended. He had not yet arranged to pay his fine Monday afternoon.

A report that a Columbus negro was killed in a wreck at Bell's siding, Sunday evening, was discounted when Deputy Custer investigated the crash. Walter McCarty, of 1163 E. 12-st, Columbus, was knocked out and others in the automobile in which he was riding thought for a while he was dead. McCarty was taken to Berger hospital and treated, then discharged.

Richard Long, 945 Dupont-ave, Columbus, was the driver of the Dodge sedan which skidded on the hill entering the passage under the C. & O. and N. & W. railroad tracks at Bell's siding. It struck a telephone pole.

Others in the automobile were McCurdy, Long's wife, sister, and sister-in-law, and Levi Harriston, 1045 Chittenden-ave.

The car was towed to the E. E. Clifton garage.

MAN, DAUGHTER HURT

F. J. Mitchell, and his daughter, Phyllis, 18, of 25 W. Maynard-ave, Columbus, were treated at Berger hospital, Sunday, for minor injuries suffered when the Ford coach in which they were riding with an Allen-co man skidded into a tree in front of the E. O. Crites residence, N. Court-st, at 6 p. m. Sunday.

The front end of the automobile was damaged and the car was taken to the Reliable Motors garage.

A new Plymouth being driven by a man named Reynolds from Detroit to Huntington, W. Va., was damaged Monday morning when it skidded on N. Court-st and struck a pole. The driver was unhurt but the auto was towed to the Noecker Motor Co., E. Main-st, by the Leach wrecker.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Custer investigated an accident south of the city on State Route 56 at 1:30 a. m. Monday where a Dayton Transfer Co. trailer-truck was in the ditch.

The driver, C. E. Williams of Dayton, who was not hurt, told the officers a state highway department truck was parked in the road dumping ashes as he drove round a curve. He said he had to hit the truck or go into the ditch. Seven tons of coal were on the trailer.

McSweeney Has Wide Reputation As Speaker.

John W. McSweeney, of Wooster, director of the Ohio welfare department, will speak Tuesday evening at the First Presbyterian church using his favorite subject "Abraham Lincoln" as the topic of his address.

The event will be the regular meeting of the Men's club of the church and will start at 7:30 p. m.

SPEAKER WELL KNOWN

The speaker, who is much in demand, is one of Ohio's best-known men. He served in Congress from his home district and ran second to Robert J. Bulkley, of Cleveland, for the Democratic nomination to the Senate. He was appointed welfare director by Governor George White.

Mr. McSweeney has gained a wide reputation with his address on Lincoln and, although he was given permission by Walter J. Marion, who obtained him, to choose any subject, he selected Lincoln. Because of its proximity to the famous Emancipation president's birthday, the subject is a very appropriate one.

WHITE HOUSE HITS PROTEST

Early's Statement Says Lindbergh Note "Publicity Message."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The White House today "cracked down" on Col. Charles A. Lindbergh who addressed a telegram of protest to President Roosevelt concerning the cancellation of the air mail contracts.

Without mentioning that Col. Lindbergh is an interested party in the air mail contracts, through his interest in aviation companies, Stephen T. Early, one of the president's secretaries, issued a statement today intimating that Col. Lindberg's telegram was dispatched for "publicity purposes."

The White House statement pointed out that Col. Lindbergh's telegram was made public before it had been received by the President.

"Except when the senders of telegrams or other communications act primarily for publicity purposes, the common practice is to allow the president, when he is addressed by them, the courtesy of receiving and reading their communications before they are read by others than the person addressed," said the White House statement.

Shasteen on Desk This Week; Four Men To Alternate Each Week.

A new schedule for police officers goes into effect tonight with officers covering a different territory each week. It had been planned to alternate monthly but, in order to prevent any 'staleness' on the job', the system was changed to operate weekly.

The department had a quiet week-end although three members of the force, Shasteen, Radcliff, and Fitzpatrick, were called to arrest Leroy Thompson, 358 E. Mill-st; who was creating quite a disturbance at his home.

Thompson was fined $100 and costs by Mayor W. B. Cady and given his choice of permanently leaving the city or going to the Cincinnati workhouse.

Alva Smith, arrested for investigation, was released.

William Roseboom, fined for intoxication by Mayor Cady, was released from the county jail, Monday, after serving his fine.

Report Four Nations Ordering Troops to Borders of Austria

VIENNA IN TURMOIL

Paris, Too, Scene of New Disorders Ttoday

BULLETIN

VIENNA, Feb. 12.—(INS.)—Rumors circulated this afternoon that Germany, Italy, Jugo-Slavia and Czecho-Slovakia were concentrating troops on the Austrian border because of the critical situation caused by the general strike.

VIENNA, Feb. 12.— Heavy loss of life occurred today in a nation-wide general strike against the Dollfuss government, called by the Socialists in protest against alleged attempts to convert Austria into a Fascist state.

Estimates placed the dead between 10 and 30.

PARIS, Feb. 12.—(INS.) — France was crippled today by the nation-wide general labor strike called in protest against "Fascist Reaction," with 1,000,000 men on strike in the Paris vicinity alone.

Public utility operations were suspended, shops and stores were picketed, and, except for a few special editions of Communist, Socialist, and Royalist organs, newspapers were not published.

Only minor disorders had occurred by early afternoon. Fifteen Communist demonstrators were arrested in the St. Denis quarter, "red belt" of Paris, shortly before noon.

Fully 40,000 mounted guards, republican guards, and police were held in readiness for immediate action in Paris, authorities pinning most of their attention on a Communist and Socialist demonstration called for the Cours De Vincennes.

TROOPS ON PATROL

Two truckloads of aviation troops and one truckload of infantrymen, all armed, were placed on patrol from the center of the city to the Cours De Vincennes.

Leon Jouhaux, secretary-general of the labor confederation and chief organizer of the strike, told International News Service that 75 per cent of the working population of Paris, comprising about 1,000,000 workers, had joined the strike.

He declared the strike in the provinces was 85 per cent effective, crippling services in the principal industrial cities.

VIENNA, Feb. 12.—(INS).— Fighting to preserve its life against a nation-wide general strike that contains elements of revolution, the government of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss declared martial law today in this city, the capital of the nation.

FIGHTING REPORTED

This action means that anyone found armed in the streets may be shot, it came as armed bands of demonstrators were fighting troops and police in the streets of Vienna and in other cities throughout the country.

Chancellor Dollfuss, in proclaiming martial law, appealed to the people to "refrain from senseless adventures and stand by the government in this fateful hour."

The Chancellor assured the nation he would do all in his power to crush outbreaks of dis-

POLICEMAN FACES SHOOTING PROBE

COLUMBUS, Feb. 12.—Accused of "quick trigger" shooting, Dan McAllister, Columbus detective, today faced investigation in connection with the death of Harry Adams, 22.

Adams was shot by McAllister, who was acquitted in 1927 of shooting a man under somewhat similar circumstances, in an encounter yesterday near the scene where the beaten and frozen body of Robert Heilman was found early Saturday.

McAllister declared that Adams had attacked him. The shot was fired, the detective said, in self-defense. He displayed a badly lacerated chin.

Companions of Adams, however, gave a conflicting version of what happened and police officials ordered the detective relieved of duty pending an investigation.

RUSH CWA FUNDS!

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—With 4,000,000 workers about to be dropped due to lack of funds, administration leaders whipped the senate today in an effort to forge immediate final enactment of the $950,000,000 appropriation for the CWA.

The CWA funds were reported exhausted Saturday. All supply purchases were suspended last week. The bill would authorize $450,000,000 for civil works projects and $500,000,000 for direct government relief measures.

COLUMBUS, O. Feb. 12—Continued employment of approximately 225,000 CWA workers in Ohio hung in the balance today as the senate at Washington worked on the $950,000,000 appropriation bill which would permit continuance of the civil works program.

3 GANGSTERS IN LIMA JAIL

Pierpont, Clark, Makley Are Heavily-Guarded; Study Plans For Defense.

LIMA, Feb. 12.—Inside heavily-barricaded cells of the Allen-co jail, patrolled by armed, grim-faced guardsmen, three members of the broken John Dillinger mob were left today to ponder over plans for their defense against charges of murder and to make up their minds whether they will secure their own counsel or leave the matter to the decision of the court.

The three desperadoes who rode to a fall on a trial of crime with their notorious leader, John Dillinger, are scheduled to be arraigned "sometime tomorrow," on charge of the murder of Sheriff Jess L. Sarber. They are Harry Pierpont, Russell Clark, and Charles Makley.

Sheriff Sarber was slain during an invasion of Allen-co jail last October 12 to obtain the freedom of the gang leader, Dillinger, who was being held at the time as a bank robber suspect. Dillinger himself now is in the custody of Indiana authorities.

Adding to the discomfiture of the trio today as they sat in their closely guarded cells under the aim of threatening machine guns was the fact that their custodian is none other than the son of the man with whose murder they are charged. He is Sheriff Don Sarber, who was named to succeed his father after the October 12 slaying.

Sheriff Sarber has taken every possible precaution against any attempt on the part of the three desperadoes or any "pals" they may have on the outside to secure their freedom. The jail itself was an armed fortress, bristling with machine guns and patroled by local officers, National Guardsmen and legionnaires.

'Medicine Show' Woman Guilty of Slaying Man

UPPER SANDUSKY, Feb. 12.— One to 20 years' imprisonment loomed ahead today for Mrs. Eva Timmer, Ferndale, Mich., widow, as a result of her conviction Saturday midnight of manslaughter in the death of Robert V. Brown, medicine show proprietor and former marshal at Powhatan Point, O.

Mrs. Timmer was found guilty by a jury of 11 men and one woman, which returned its verdict exactly on the stroke of twelve o'clock Saturday night. The court had warned earlier that, unless a decision was reached, the jury would be locked up at midnight for the week-end.

The verdict of the jury came two days after Mrs. Timmer's 43rd birthday.

States attorneys charged that Mrs. Timmer shot and killed the former marshal to obtain possession of his $12,000 collection of Indian relics. While admitting the shooting, Mrs. Timmer contended, however, that she acted in self-defense when Brown attempted to attack her in the miedicine show bus in which the couple traveled.

Brown's body was found last October in a ditch on a road between Carey and Upper Sandusky. During her trial, Mrs. Timmer testified she shot the former marshal near Marietta late on the day of Oct. 13 and drove more than 200 miles north to Wyandotco where she disposed of the body in the ditch.

BARBER ABDUCTION SUSPECT IS CAUGHT

BALTIMORE, Feb. 12.—Government agents today continued to question Basil Hugh Banghart, fugitive from Chicago on an indictment charging him with the kidnaping of John (Jake the Barber) Factor.

They were trying to get him to describe his movements since his escape from the South Bend, Ind., jail in 1932.

Banghart was captured without a struggle yesterday in front of the fashionable apartments in which his three companions had two apartments. The rooms yielded a miniature arsenal of machine guns, high-powered rifles, various types of pistols and hundreds of rounds of ammunition.

One of the apartments also had a short wave radio receiving set capable of picking up police calls of distant cities.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

BULLETIN

ATHENS, Feb. 12.—Admitting that he was to meet with members of the athletic board and officials of Indiana University, Don Peden, gridiron mentor at Ohio University here, left ttoday for Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Outside of his admission that he was to confer with Indiana University officials, Peden had nothing to say. Officials of Ohio University likewise held their silence.

While doubt was expressed here that Peden would sign with the Hoosier school, it was predicted that if he does, W. J. Trautwein, present line coach of the Bobcat squad, will be named head coach.

UNLESS something unexpected happens between now and next fall Ohio State will still be without a varsity football coach * * * A 'Master' is being sought * * * Someone who will knock them all cold * * * Many noted football coaches have been suggested, many have been reported "as good as in the bag," but as yet nothing tangible has been disclosed by "The Saint" who rules Ohio State athletics * * *

To our way of thinking the athletic committee of the university need not go out of Ohio to sign a man who should fill the bill * * * That man is Don Peden, whose Ohio university football teams have brought much fame and national recognition to the college town huddled in the hills of Athens-co * * *

Don Peden is able, he knows football, he knows how to get it over to his hopefuls, he has the respect of every athlete who ever tried to perform under him, he is revered by his colleagues in the coaching game, he has a striking personality, and should in reality prove the answer to the question in minds of the people who lay their buck-and-a-ahalf on the line to see two college teams contest for honors * * *

The word is out that Indiana wants Peden to coach its gridders since Doc Hayes bowed to the ire of the alumni, but we believe if Don Peden is approached in the proper way he will sign his John Hancock to an Ohio State contract * * * Peden hasn't been at Ohio U. for a number of years for nothing; he has watched the trend of Ohio football with eager eyes and will accept the offer that looks best to him * * * We firmly believe Peden will be in the Big Ten next fall, either with Ohio or Indiana * * * And it is almost as safe to say that where Peden goes so will travel big Bill Trautwein, his effecient line coach * * *

A Circleville youth of whom you are hearing a great deal this year is George Colville, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Colville, E. Mainst, who is a member of the OSU varsity swimming team * * * He has won first place in several meets, and has put Circleville on the map in another sport * * * Tubby Vlerebome and football and basketball at Muskingum * * * Jack Bales in football at Princeton * * * Howard White in football and track at Ohio Wesleyan are other residents of this city who have gained recognition on college fields in the past few years * * *

Don't forget the county tournament starts in the CAC gymnasium Saturday afternoon, continuing into the evening, and then the next Friday and Saturday * * * Turnament tickets are going past.

order.

Meantime groups of armed Socialists rioted in the streets. Police and soldiers fought them.

All public buildings were occupied by troops to guard them against damage. Machine guns and hand grenades were brought into play.

Barricades of barbed wire were thrown up by rioters.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—The British general post office announced shortly after noon today that all telegraph and telephone service to Paris had been cut at the Paris end due to the French general strike.

Radio communication between London and Paris had been suspended earlier in the day.

TOKYO, Feb. 12.—Japanese newspapers and military leaders remained silent today on the charges of Gen. Vassily Bluecher, commander of the Soviet far eastern army, that Japan had made large-scale preparations for war against Russia in Siberia.

The press was forbidden to mention Gen. Bluecher's charges that Japan had amassed 130,000 men in Manchuria in addition to more than 100,000 Manchukuo troops and 12,000 white Russian guards.

Nudist Advance Agent

CRESCENT CITY, Cal.—Plans of a nudist colony to set up camp near here were revealed today by John R. Breen, sheriff of Del Norte county, who said he would not molest its members. Reports that a naked man was seen in a nearby forest caused the sheriff to remark: "He is probably the advance agent for the colony."

Birthstones, Colors and Metals

R. Frederic Kane, Astrologer.

A lot of us think that we were born unlucky and that nothing can be done about it but the ancient astrologers Paracelsus and Agrippa have left some records showing that if we wear the right colors, gems and metals, we can change our luck. These two astrologers claimed that they found, after extensive research that persons born under different zodiacal signs were influenced by certain gems, etc., as follows:

ARIES—diamond, amethyst, iron, red.

TANRUS—mossagate, emerald, copper, yellow.

GEMINI—crystal, aqua marine, mercury, violet.

CANCER—emerald, black, onyx, silver, green.

LEO—ruby, diamond, gold, orange.

VIRGO—pink, jasper, hyacinth, mercury, violet.

LIBRA—diamond, opal, copper, yellow.

SCORPIO—topaz, malachite, iron, red.

SAGITTARIUS — carbuncle, turquoise, tin, blue.

CAPRICORN—white onyx, moonstone, lead, indigo.

AQUARIUS—sapphire, opal, lead, indigo.

PISCES—chrysolite, moonstone, tin, blue.

It looks like a simple matter to pick out what you should wear to have good luck but it isn't so easy as it looks because the signs mentioned above refer to the sign which was on the eastern horizon at the moment of your birth. If you don't know the moment of your birth you are still out of luck. If it so happened that you were born about sunrise the above list of gems, etc., will apply to you and if you know the sign the sun was in everything should be hotsy totsy as far as you are concerned. But to be absolutely sure about this send a self-addressed stamped envelope to

R. Fredric Kane
69 E. WELCH AVE., COLUMBUS, O.

Be sure to send the following birth data: Day of month and year, place of birth and the TIME (as near as possible).

Perhaps by wearing the right gems, colors and metals you, too, can be "lucky."

M'CRACKEN TO FACE PERJURY?

District Attorney Says Action May Be Taken; "Who Arrested Who?"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—A threat to seek indictment of former Assistant Secretary of Commerce William P. MacCracken, Jr., on a perjury charge, growing out of the game of hide-and-seek which he has played with the Senate, was made in the District of Columbia Supreme court today by U. S. District Attorney Leslie Garnett.

Appearing for the Senate, in response to a habeas corpus writ, issued by Federal Judge O'Donoghue, Garnett declared that MacCracken "imposed upon your honor" by stating that he was under arrest.

Contempt charges against MacCracken by the judge should be seriously considered in the light of the dramatic circumstances surrounding the case, Garnett asserted.

The district attorney declared to the court that MacCracken appeared voluntarily at Jurney's apartment Saturday night 'and became a trespasser in the home of Jurney." He added:

"MacCracken brought a notary public and although informed by Jurney that the latter did not propose to arrest him and could not arrest him until the Senate convened, he made oath that he was under arrest.

"He imposed upon your honor. It is my duty to present to the grand jury evidence as to whether or not he is guilty of perjury."

MURRELL TRIAL ON

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 12.—Soldiers and civilians crowded the federal court room here today for the arraignment of Lieut. John H. Murrel, former West Point football star, on a charge of criminal assault.

Lieut. Murrel's life will be at stake since the alleged attack on Blanche Ralls, pretty Birmingham, Ala., divorcee, was on a government reservation.

The charges grew out of an alleged attack on the woman on Oct. 22 last, at Fort Sam Houston. According to Miss Ralls, who was visiting a sister here, she attended a party with the young officer. Later, he started to take her home. She said he drove to the reservation and there attacked her.

CALLED BY WHITE

COLUMBUS, Feb. 12.—John McSweeney, state welfare director has been asked to appear before Governor White next Tuesday to discuss with the governor, the complaints concerning Warden P. E. Thomas of the Ohio Penitentiary in connection with alleged favoritism shown prisoners.

The governor has taken no action in connection with the complaints, because he has been unable to talk to McSweeney he said. He is said to have suggested to the warden that he "might better resign" in view of threatened investigation of the warden's administration.

'Financial Wizard' To Obtain Freedom

BOSTON, Feb. 12.—Chas. Ponzi, one time "Little Napoleon of Finance," today was preparing to leave his "Elba" cell in Charlestown state's prison.

The dapper little "financial wizzard," whose monetary expoit once made Americans gasp, leaves on Wednesday, his friends say, with a realization that his "fifty per cent in ninety days" $9,000,000 bubble has paled into insignificance before the vast financial collapse and governmental frauds of the decade or more since he startled the world with his money manipulations.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

SOME years ago in a small town out West, the one and only hotel was chocked full of guests, when two salesmen arrived lookin' for accommodations for the night. The proprietor couldn't squeeze 'em in any place and was about to turn them away when he remembered an old church across the street which he had bought intendin' to add it to his establishment. Since there was no other place in town to sleep that night he had a pretty easy job convincing the new arrivals that they ought to spend the night in this building.

All was well in the quiet little town until about midnight when the church bell began to ring out clear and loud. After a while the night clerk woke up and shakin' the sleepy bell-hop, sent him out to investigate. The clerk waited a couple of minutes when the boy ran in and chirped, "The man in pew sixteen was ringing for ginger-ale."

A Man Who— . . . Appreciated . . . HUMANITY!

Fog-like, legend has long since wrapped itself about the figure of Abraham Lincoln. Millions of words have been said and written, hundreds of monuments have been built in commeration of this man's will to serve humanity.

From the very human qualities that he possessed we can best draw inspiration for courage when courage is most needed. Not divine omniscience . . . but the weary struggle of a gaunt, perplexed countryman dedicated a reunited nation to a glorious destiny in spite of bickering politicians, incompetent generals, military unfamiliarity, a scolding wife and a mad actor's gun.

This is the real Lincoln — the man whose works live on to inspire posterity because his responsibility called forth his utmost powers. To a nation faced with economic dis couragements his problems make ours seem quite insignificant and petty in comparison.

A. LINCOLN

We pause a minute to pay our respects to a great man—Abraham Lincoln. His courage and leadership was a wonderful inspiration to the American People during the period of economic strife through which they had just passed.

Today he stands, god-like, in the sun of a nation's adoration, casting a shadow that obliterates the very traits that made him great—those intensely human qualities which made decision hard when a people's fate hung in the balance.

ADVERSITY MADE HIM GREAT

Abraham's entire life was one of struggle. His parents were poor, while young he worked hard for the necessaries of life. To obtain an education he was forced to endure hardships that today are unknown to even the very poorest. His marriage was unhappy. He was not a successful lawyer, measuring success from a monetary standpoint and after being elected to the Presidency of the United States the country was thrown into the War of Secession.

Of him Judge Walter Malone wrote:

A blend of mirth and sadness, smiles and tears;
A quaint 'knight errant' of the pioneers;
A homely hero born of star and sod;
A peasant prince; a masterpiece of God.

A Memorial Attesting the Greatness of Lincoln

In the city of Washington stands the only memorial of its kind in the United States, a massive building of white marble, a fitting climax to the efforts of Americans to honor the life and service of Lincoln.

In the interior is a majestic statue of the Great Emancipator seated, dwarfing all other objects there, while above the statue is this inscription:

In this temple as in the hearts of the people for whom he saved the Union the memory of Abraham Lincoln is enshrined forever

Him, do we honor today, the 125th anniversary of his birth.

OURS is a geneology of which to be proud. A geneology that wears the name of Lincoln proudly. In the light of the lofty, the noble tradition he bequeathed us it would be difficult to wander far from the straight road he indicated for us.

A road that runs a straight course, that never turns aside to take a doubtful or devious path to the realization of a national ideal of peace, of plenty of happiness for all. So in the inspiration of his courage, a courage that did not falter in darker days than we have known, let us go confidently forward.

Europe's "Ghost" Planes

IT is easy for the imagination to give reality to excessive fears.

In this fact may lie explanation of the mysterious "ghost" planes reported to be making flights over parts of northern Europe.

From Northern Finland, Sweden and Norway come reports of airplanes cutting across the star-lit sky apparently on reconoitering trips. One of these mysterious planes is said to have made its appearance over London.

The accepted explanation by the populations of the countries visited, of course is that the flyers represent foreign nations preparing for war and that they are sent out to further such preparations. One Swedish aviation expert expressed the view that those sighted over Swedish territory were Japanese flyers scouting the Arctice regions in connection with a possible conflict between Japan and Russia. Others of the "ghost" planes are believed to have been Russian.

Spy scares in Europe are of such routine occurrence that they have come to hold little popular interest. Heretofore, though, they have involved chiefly spies who moved about on land. Now that these secret agents have taken to the air, stories dealing with their activities should prove a little more thrilling to the readers.

Explanation Needed

AN explanation seems to be due from America's women flyers.

Why are none of them entered in the Pan-American races scheduled in connection with New Orleans, Mardi Gras festivities

The managing director of the meet, in explaining the "Men Pilots Only" notion on the program after the announcement of each event, says not a single inquiry concerning the races was received from a woman pilot.

Can it be that America's ladybirds, having won the right to participate in the hazardous sport of racing, have lost their taste for its thrills? It will be remembered that theNational Aeronautic association formerly had a rule discriminating against women in flying events. The protests of women pilots grew until the rule finally was abolished.

The days of militancy in the campaign for woman suffrage can be recalled by many. Yet, after the right to vote was won, many women failed to exercise the franchise.

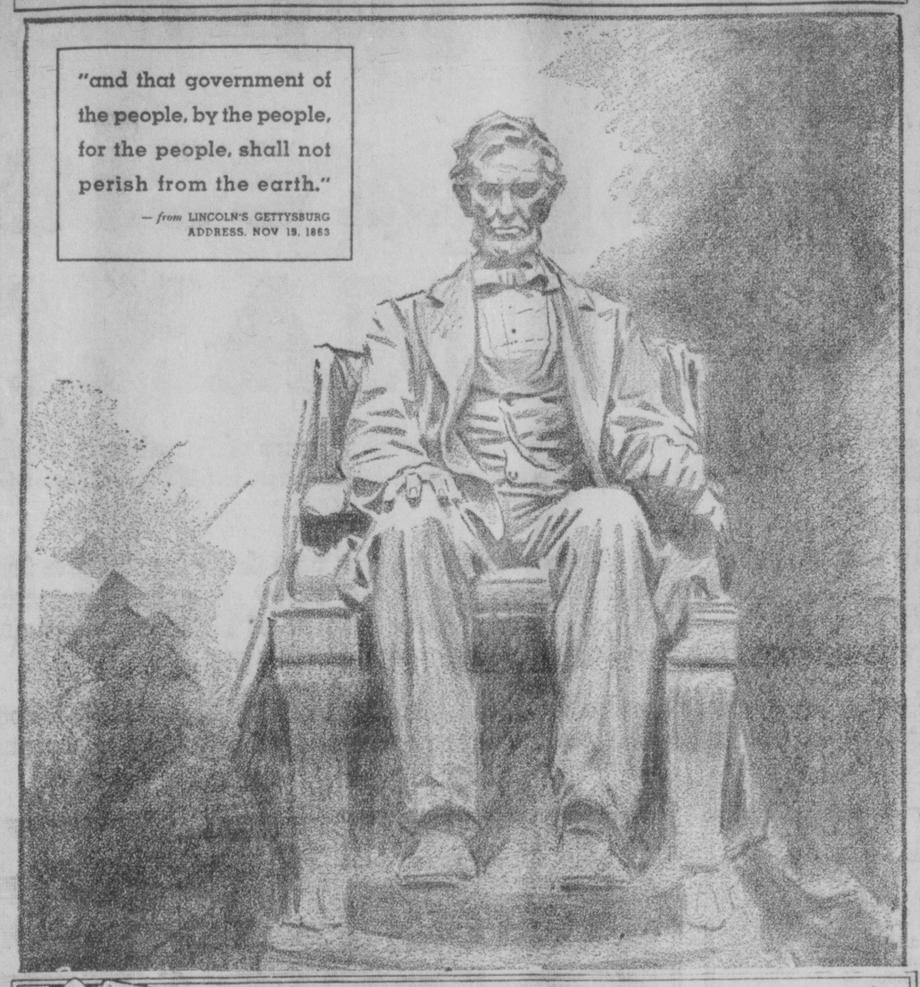
True Then and Now

By Paul Frehm



SYNOPSIS

Unable to find employment, young and beautiful Patricia Warren capitalizes her card skill, at fifty cents an hour, by making a fourth at bridge parties given by the wealthy Mrs. Eileen Sycott. Julian Haverholt, noted bridge expert, is fascinated by Patricia and impressed by her game. He offers to make her his secretary and partner, suggesting that she live at his home. Aware of Haverholt's unsavory reputation, Patricia hesitates to accept the position. Haverholt escorts Patricia to the drab home she shares with her nagging stepmother. In the hallway, he suddenly embraces Pat. Indignant, she declines his business offer and rushes indoors.

"If I don't get a job within two weeks I promise I'll telephone Mrs. Haverholt," said Patricia.

CHAPTER THREE

"Patricia," called her stepmother's querulous voice from the bedroom beyond. "Whatever are you doing? Come to bed at once!"

"I'm coming," was the girl's muffled response.

"Did I hear you crying?"

"No."

"Did you and Mrs. Sycott win tonight?"

"Yes."

"How much?"

"Seventy dollars I believe it was."

"I do think Eileen Sycott might offer to split winnings with you," said Lillian Warren crossly.

They had gone over that thousands of times. "She takes all the risks," Patricia pointed out wearily.

"You always win," persisted her stepmother, thoroughly aroused now and thoroughly angry. She appeared in the doorway, her graying hair done up in curl papers, her feet bare, a soiled cotton kimono held around her. She developed on an old, old grievance, "Heaven knows you should win. Playing bridge is the only thing you can do."

"I've tried to get a job," said Patricia sullenly, averting her face lest the other detect the signs of recent tears.

"'Tried' won't buy the groceries or pay the rent! It's a funny thing to me that if you can win seventy dollars playing cards you can't figure out some way to put yourself to better account than hiring out as a bridge partner for fifty cents an hour."

"Let's not discuss it any more tonight. There's two dollars in my pocketbook. Please take it."

"I should say I'll take it," muttered the older woman. But as she picked up Patricia's pocketbook she spied Haverholt's card on the floor. She swooped upon it before the girl could anticipate her movement.

She read the fatal words, "The job is still open". She demanded explanations. The whole story came out. The storm broke upon Patricia's hapless head. Lillian Warren would hear no explanations, no excuses. She could comprehend nothing beyond the fact that Patricia had refused an offer which would lift her two small daughters and herself into comparative affluence.

"Your reputation," she cried, her face contorted with fury, "don't talk to me about your reputation. After what your father was, you've got no reputation to start with."

"Don't you dare say that!"

"I'll say what I please. J. R. Warren might have been your father but he was my husband and I say he was a worthless man who died without a cent and left his children to starve. He couldn't do anything except be the gentleman and play a good game of cards. And you're exactly like him!"

"I'm glad to be like my father."

"Whatever you're glad to be, you're going to telephone Julian Haverholt in the morning and tell him if he still wants you to work for him you're willing."

"I won't."

"You will."

The ugly quarrel woke the children sleeping in the bedroom. Teresa, the elder, began to cry and Ellen promptly followed suit. The apartment was bedlam. Patricia's head was splitting. She thought that she could stand no more. Surely anything was better than this. If Julian Haverholt had appeared at that moment the girl would have gone with him anywhere, on any conditions.

Still she would not yield to her stepmother's demands. She and Lillian Warren had never lived at peace together. The two were entirely incompatible. They saw nothing alike. They understood each other not at all. Patricia was a lady by birth and by inclination. Her stepmother was a lady by neither.

Indeed it was the patrician quality, a certain aloofness and pride in the girl that fed the flames of Lillian Warren's hatred. For those same qualities she had, before his death, come to hate her husband. The dark, romantic southerner with the charming motherless child, whom she had promised him to love, had, in the end, been too different from her and from the things she knew. A man who would gamble when he could not afford to lose but who would rather starve than appeal for help to outsiders was to her, incomprehensible. His principles and codes, his nice sensibilities and prejudices, like Patricia's, meant nothing to her. Both of them, according to the outsider's bitter belief, would cheerfully swallow mountains only to strain at gnats.

Patricia was little better in the mutual battle of misunderstanding. In hours of calm deliberation she could forget the vulgarity and cheapness of the woman her father had married and could comprehend dimly the other's point of view. She knew the havoc that poverty played with nerves. She knew her stepmother's fierce ambitions for little Teresa and Ellen. The thought of these latter brought her at last to compromise.

"Stop screaming at me, Lillian," she said finally. "If I don't get a job within two weeks I promise I'll telephone Mr. Haverholt."

With that the older woman had to be satisfied. Coldly and without speaking, the two retired to the common bedroom. Patricia flung herself to the narrow iron cot beside the whimpering Teresa. Her stepmother climbed into the bed she shared with Ellen, the baby.

When the jangling alarm went off in the morning Patricia woke to find her stepmother gone. On the dresser she had left a characteristic note. "I've gone to give Mrs. Terence her fitting. I have to work if you don't. Feed the children and see that Teresa takes her bath."

Patricia dressed in the living room, assisting little Ellen with her buttons and presenting the old time worn arguments for heavy underwear. Teresa, who finished her toilette swiftly as always, sat on the edge of a chair repeating over and over, "I'm hungry, hurry, hurry, I'm hungry."

"I am hurrying," Patricia assured her patiently. "You could put on the oatmeal if you wanted to."

"I don't want to," replied Teresa politely. She added, "What were you and mamma fighting about last night?"

"We weren't fighting, sweetheart."

"But I heard you."

Patricia looked at the child in a kind of sickness. "Well then," she said, "it was something that little girls can't understand."

"But I want to know."

Addison's Disease Is On Decline

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

WE ARE endowed with various glands, complex structures found in different parts of the body. They vary in shape, size and function. Perhaps he most interesting, and about which the least is known, are the "adrenal glands".

The adrenal glands are two small structures, each in shape like a cocked-hat, and snugly placed on top of each kidney. They are yellowish in color and each weighs about four grams. They secrete a substance called "epinophrine".

In 1855, an eminent physician named Addison first described a fatal disease due to a disturbance of these glands. In honor of this man and in appreciation of his classical work, the name "Addison's disease" was given this ailment. I am glad to say that the disease is not as frequently encountered as in the days when Addison first discovered it. Fortunately, too, it is no longer considered a fatal disease.

Skin Changes Color

The skin of the sufferer is deep bronze in color. This changes to a light yellow or a deep brown. In some cases it may even become black. At first the discoloration is confined only to the face and hands, but eventually involves the entire body.

In addition to this change of color, the victim complains of marked muscular weakness, spells of profound exhaustion and attacks of nausea and vomiting. Unfortunately, there are no early signs of the disease to warn the sufferer of his ailment.

It is only within recent years that hope for a cure of this affliction has been aroused. Various glandular extracts, particularly an extract of the adrenal gland, have been successfully used. Though not all cases have been cured, there is great hope that a successful form of treatment will soon be achieved. For the present, the injection of certain extracts improves the general health and vitality of the patient.

The sufferer from this disease must avoid sudden exertion and severe muscular exercise. He must be free from heavy work and worry. Emotional strain and excitement should be avoided. Hygienic rules, particularly those that relate to cleanliness, abundant rest, warmth, fresh air, sunlight and nutritious food, must have a prominent part in the care of these unfortunate persons.

Why It Is on Decline

It is probable that the decline in Addison's disease can be explained by the decrease in tuberculosis. Most authorities believe that tuberculosis is the underlying cause of Addison's disease. Since tuberculosis no longer merits the name, "Captain of the Men of Death," it is logical to assume that this is one reason we do not encounter the other disease so frequently.

I am confident that when tuberculosis is entirely conquered, Addison's disease and other baffling complications of tuberculosis will disappear.

Early symptoms of Addison's disease and tuberculosis are usually vague and indefinite. No matter how slight these symptoms may seem to you they should be given immediate attention. Never overlook such signs as cough, loss of weight, poor appetite, weakness, chest or body pain, fever, night sweats and changes in the voice and color of the skin.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

NOBODY likes to go to the dentist, and if you mention "drill" to the average dentist's patient, he can imagine himself in pain already. Some of the "molar-herders" use gas to make their sensitive patient forget the pain and I guess some of them would like to use a bat. But the latest wrinkle that I hear of is a Middle West practitioner who is trying psychology.

He was about to start drilling, and with his best professional smile said to his patient. "Now, think of something pleasant and you won't feel any pain at all."

He went on with his work and through it all there was not a peep out of the patient. "Fine," said the doc, "What were you thinking of?"

"Well," says the patient, "I was thinking that my mother-in-law was here in my place."

AT THE CLIFTONA

Marie Dressler! John Barrymore! Wallace Beery! Jean Harlow! Lionel Barrymore! Lee Tracy! Edmund Lowe! Billie Burke! Madge Evans! Jean Hersholt! Karen Morley! Phillips Holmes!

These are the names in the amazing aggregation of stars who appear together in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's sensational picture, "Dinner at Eight," which opened yesterday at the Cliftona Theatre as the most remarkable picture filmed in the last decade.

The picture is based on the play by George S. Kaufman and Edna Ferber, which ran on Broadway for more than a year. It describes the emotional experiences of a heterogeneous group of people, who are brought together at a dramatic dinner party.

AT THE GRAND

Paul Muni's wizardry in the art of make-up has become a byword, not only at the Warner Bros.-First National Studios, but all over Hollywood. How realistic is his power of submerging himself in a character was demonstrated recently on a stage at the First National studios where one of the early scenes was being shot for his latest starring picture, "The World Changes," at the Grand Theatre.

Girl Scout News

Girl Scout troop No. 2, known as the Pioneer Girl Scout troop, met with its captain, Mrs. P. S. Herberholz, Friday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. After troop discussion and songs, we retired to our patrol corners where attendance was taken.

We discussed plans for a George Washington party and devoted most of the time in our patrol corners to studying the Morse Code, the second class scouts reviewing it to fulfill their first class requirement. The girls working on first class also spent some time taking personal measurements and judging weights.

After playing a good thinking game called "Signal Shoppers" we ended our meeting with taps and the goodnight salute.

Girl Scout troop No. 3 opened its weekly meeting with flag service and opening song. After singing two songs we went to our patrol corners where we cut out hearts for our Valentine party. Wednesday night at Memorial Hall. All girls of the troop are urged to attend.

Norma Jean Brown and Marjorie Friese were visitors. Norma Jean Wolf passed her tenderfoot test.

The meeting closed with radio handclasp and the closing song.

Scribe, Eris Francis.

Limited Height of Buildings

Augustus, first emperor of Rome, limited the height of buildings along the public streets to 70 feet, or six stories, because he feared structures could not be safely built high. Attempts to build higher than six stories, it is understood, resulted in disaster.

A general view of the west wing of the Welfare Island Penitentiary, New York, after Commissioner of Corrections Austin McCormick (left), with a picked body of men had conducted his surprise raid. The litter was made by prisoners who bombarded raiders from cells. Drug-carrying pigeons, weapons and an amazing situation whereby the inmates ran the prison were uncovered. Joey Rao (center), notorious gangster, was called the real warden of the prison. At right, Warden Joseph McCann, stripped of authority after the raid.

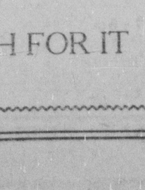
WOMAN'S WEAKNESS



MANY women both young and middle-aged suffer from periodic pains in side or back — from catarrhal drains — from nervousness, or "heat flashes." They should take that vegetable tonic favorably known for sixty years as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This is what Mrs. Goldie Rueschler of 921 S. Third St., Columbus, Ohio, said: "I noticed a great improvement before I had finished one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It restored my appetite that had failed for several months. I gradually felt my strength returning and it was not long before I was myself again." New size, tablets 50 cts., Liquid $1.00.

Maybe Not on the Second Day Either

By IRVIN S. COBB

FOR his topic that Sabbath morning the reverend father chose the Judgment. He painted a shining picture of the scene which would be presented on the Last Day, when all the race of mankind, the quick and the dead, the old and the young, from Adam to the newest born babe, would assemble before the foot of the throne of the Almighty to be judged according to their deeds done in the flesh. It was an eloquent discourse and a moving one.

When the service was over an elderly Irishman tarried after the rest of the congregation had departed. He halted the priest as the latter was leaving.

"Your Riverince," he said, "I want to ask you a question or two if you please. What I want to know is this: Do you mane to say thot on the Last Day whin Gabriel's Trumpet blows iverybody thot iver lived in this world will be gathered togither at the wan place and the wan time?"

"That is my conception of the meaning of the Scriptures and the Gospels," said the priest.

"Do you think, now f'rinstance, thot Cain and Abel'll be there side be side? And thot little fella David and thot big slob Goliath—think also you think? And Brian Boru and Oliver Cromwell? And the A. P. A.'s and the A. O. H.'s?"

"Naturally."

"Father," said the parishioner, "there'll be dom little judgin' done the first day."

All Ready For Endurance Test

Mystery Driver to be chained to wheel.

The mystery driver announced Monday morning that he was ready to start his endurance drive in an attempt to shatter the world's record of 105 hours held by the veteran, Swennes Earl Chamberlain.

He was two hours Sunday morning testing the Ford V8 that will be used in the grueling run and after putting it through its paces pronounced it perfect.

The Mystery Driver said this morning that every precaution had been taken to equip this car with the best possible tires, etc., obtainable because faulty gasoline or tire trouble would spoil his chances at the record.

Observers state there is a very peculiar something about these endurance drivers for the most part they are very nervous and undoubtedly the Mystery Driver is no exception, as he seems never to do very much sleeping but always seems to have plenty of energy. And it will be interesting to note his condition next Saturday night when he is taken from the car after his long drive.

The drive will start Tuesday morning from in front of the Reliable Motor Co. at about 9:30 o'clock.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

By Mrs. Howard Jones

One hundred and twenty-five years ago today there came to this world a child who was destined to bear burdens, do great deeds and have profound influence upon the country.

With his early life we are all familiar, how from sordid surroundings he forced his way by sheer character to the place among the immortals.

The boys of the neighborhood were sent to the mill with corn to be ground while waiting there frolicked and tusseled. In these Lincoln took no part. He was, the story runs, the shyest, most reticent, most uncouth and awkward appearing homeliest and worst dressed boy in the crowd. One day a large boy attacked him—much to the amazement of the bunch Lincoln soundly thrashed the first, then the second and third boy who offered in succession, then with his back to a tree he challenged the crowd and taunted them with cowardice. After that they let him alone and as he grew older there were many trials of strength in which Abraham came off victorious.

MOVED AT EIGHT

He was eight years of age when his father migrated from Knob Creek to a frontier part of southern Indiana. His search for knowledge recognized no impediment. We find him snatching a few minutes for reading while the plow horses rested at the end of a furrow, working examples on the back of a wooden shovel. He always stood at the head of his class, was a good penman, delegated to set copies for the smaller pupils, one maxim he wrote was

'Good boys who to their books apply
Will all be great men by and by."

He was a fluent speaker, fond of humor and had a great fund of pertinent stories with which to illustrate his speeches. Some of these were not very elegant and shocked the refined tastes of the men about him in Washington.

At on time Mr. Lincoln was opposed by George Forquer, a prominent politician who owned a pretentious house upon which had been erected a lightning-rod, a new and strange device. Forquer indulged in a flood of personal abuse and ridicule, ending up by saying "the young man must be taken down."

Lincoln replying said "I desire to live, and I desire place and distinction; but I would rather die now than like the gentleman, live to see the day that I would change my politics for an office worth $3,000 a year, and then feel compelled to erect a lightning rod to protect a guilty conscience from an offended God."

For twenty five years there existed a rivalry between Abraham Lincoln and Steven A. Dogulas. "The Little Giant." Rivalry in love as rivalry in politics. They both wooed Mary Todd but Lincoln finally led her to the altar.

As Lincoln and Miss Todd were walking one day Miss Todd tripped and would have fallen but for Abraham's restraining arm. "Go home," he said to her, "and tell your friends that you have reposed upon Abraham's bosom."

When Douglas was notified that Lincoln had been chosen to run against him for the Senate he said "of all the damned Whig rascals about Springfield Abe Lincoln is the ablest and most honest." When the Republican National Committee met at Chicago in May, 1860, it passed over Seward Chase and other recognized leaders and nominated Lincoln. This choise had its basis primarily on the record made by Lincoln in the fight against Douglas. The Democratic National committee at Baltimore nominated Douglas and the "Little Giant" and the big one entered upon their last contest.

When Lincon was inaugurated the country was in such an hysterical state that for the first time in history it was necessary to conduct the President-Elect to the Capitol surrounded by bayonets and with loaded cannons set at different points on the route.

No other president has been so maliciously criticised, so deliberately insulted, so consistently misunderstood as has been Abraham Lincoln. He was more bitterly hated and more lovally loved than any other one in the whole list of Presidents. He bore patiently with his revilers and was beginning to command the respect and admiration which were his due when his carrer was cut short by the bullet of an assassin.

One of the greatest qualities of Abraham Lincoln was his deep sense of the dignity, and pathos of mortal destiny. His favorite poem was

'Oh! why should the Spirit of Mortal be Proud."

Abraham Lincoln to an amazing extent is the books he read. By this light we can trace the progress made from the disreputable doggerel in his twenties, common place addresses in his thirties, until near the end of his fifties when he wrote the greatest threnody in any language, "The Gettysburg Address."

BIBLE CAME FIRST

In his reading the Bible came first, then Aesop's Fables, Robinosn Cruso, Pilgrim's Progress, all had their influence. The Declaration of Independence gave him his first principles of political science. He was a student of Shakespeare and often quoted it. Fond of humor, Petroleum V. Nasebv and Artemus Ward were read to his cabinet to their express disgust. In his later life the study of the law took up much of his time. He studied German and learned to read it. He knew something of French and Spanish. In 1859 he read Plutarch's Lives and a year later he head Homer. Two heartbreaking griefs had been his lot. His first sweetheart the woman who had his early love, Ann Rutledge died before they could be married, and while in the White House his darling, Millie, sickened and died.

CLINTON-CO CHIEF SUPPORTS SAWYER

WILMINGTON, Feb. 12.— Another of Ohio's stalwart Democrats announced himself as favoring Lieut. Governor Charles Sawyer, Cincinnati, as the Democratic nominee for the State's gubernatorial nomination, when Matt R. Denver, Wilmington, head of the Clinton-co Democratic Committee, today wrote the Cincinnati attorney, requesting that he allow his name to be used in the August primary. The Denver letter comes shortly after a similar note from Judge Hugh Nichols, former Ohio Chief Justice, who wrote to Sawyer last week.

"You must realize that busy men of known ability and accomplishment must at times, make sacrifices for their fellows," wrote Denver, who three times served his party as a member of Congress, and has many times been a delegate to the Democratic National Conventions, both from his district and at-large from the state. Denver declared that "Ohio must support" the President "by elevating to her governorship a man of outstanding strength, ability and vision."

The Wilmington man is one of the widest-known and most highly respected of all State leaders. He, himself, has been prominently mentioned several times as a possible Democratic candidate for Governor.

They Satisfy
. . . people know it!
Same thing with a good cigarette or a good wood-fire.
All you need is a light.
And all you want is a cigarette that keeps tasting right whether you smoke one or a dozen.
That's what people like about Chesterfields. You can count on them. They're milder—and they taste better.
In two words, they satisfy. That says it.
